Your personal synthesis

Life Path 6 (The Nurturer): Six is the number of care. It brings warmth, responsibility, artistic taste and a deep sense of duty to family and community. A 6 makes places beautiful and people feel looked after.

Expression 4 (The Builder), Soul Urge 7 (The Seeker), Personality 6 (The Nurturer), Maturity 1.

Personal Year 4 in 2026: building and hard work.

Your Personality 6 is the door people walk through first, and your Soul Urge 7 is what you protect inside. The chapters that follow look at each number in depth, then at timing: your Pinnacles, Challenges and the year ahead.

How to read this report

This report is written for Maya Elena Brooks, born 1992-09-03. It uses the Pythagorean system: letters are numbered A=1 to I=9 and repeat from J, dates are reduced digit by digit, and the master numbers 11, 22 and 33 are kept wherever they appear.

Two inputs make every number here: your full birth name, exactly as it was first registered, and your date of birth. Nicknames, married names and later spellings describe how you have grown into the world; they are not used for the core numbers.

Numerology is a symbolic language for self-reflection. Treat each chapter as a set of questions to think about rather than a prediction. Keep what rings true, and notice what you resist; both are useful.

How this report is organised

- Your core numbers at a glance: one table with every number we calculated.
- Five core chapters: Life Path (with gifts, shadows, love, work, money and wellbeing), Expression, Soul Urge, Personality and Maturity.
- The details: Birthday and Attitude numbers, your name letter by letter, the inclusion chart, Hidden Passion and karmic lessons.
- Timing: your four Pinnacles and four Challenges, your nine-year cycle, and a month-by-month guide for each of those nine years (108 months).
- Relationships: how your Life Path tends to work with each other number.
- A workbook with reflection questions for each core number.

Life Path 6: The Nurturer

Your Life Path is the most important number in your chart. It comes from your full date of birth and describes the road you walk through life: the lessons you keep meeting, the talents that grow with use and the direction that feels right.

Keywords: care, responsibility, home, beauty.

Six is the number of care. It brings warmth, responsibility, artistic taste and a deep sense of duty to family and community. A 6 makes places beautiful and people feel looked after.

Your natural gifts

- Nurturing, generous and loyal
- Strong sense of fairness
- Creates beautiful, welcoming spaces
- Natural counsellor and healer
- Takes responsibility seriously

Shadows to watch

- Over-giving and martyrdom
- Perfectionism about home or family
- Giving unasked-for advice
- Feeling responsible for everyone's happiness

Love and relationships

A 6 is devoted and romantic, often happiest in a committed relationship and family life. The lesson is to let your partner care for you too and to love people as they are, not as you hope they'll be.

Work and calling

A 6 thrives in service: health, education, design, hospitality, community. They make caring, principled leaders.

Careers and roles that often suit a 6: teacher, nurse, doctor, therapist, interior designer, chef, social worker, florist, coach, HR.

Money

A 6 tends to spend on others and on home. Budget for yourself first. Family money needs clear boundaries.

Wellbeing

Cooking, gardening, art and time at home recharge a 6. Notice the guilt that stops you resting; you can't pour from an empty cup.

Your growth direction

Your growth comes from boundaries. The strongest 6s keep their huge heart and accept that other people's choices are theirs to make.

Read this chapter as the main theme of your report. Every other number either supports it or adds a different colour to it.

Expression 4: The Builder

Your Expression number (also called Destiny) comes from every letter of your full birth name. It describes your natural toolkit: the abilities you were born with and the way you tend to go after goals.

Keywords: stability, work, order, reliability.

Four is the number of foundations. It brings discipline, method and loyalty. A 4 builds things step by step that last: homes, systems, careers, families. They are the person everyone relies on when things must actually get done.

Talents you were born with

- Reliable: does what they say
- Organised, practical and thorough
- Patient with long projects
- Honest and fair
- Turns ideas into working systems

How you go after goals

A 4 does best with clear structure and measurable progress. They excel where precision and persistence matter, and they make dependable managers.

Roles where an Expression 4 tends to shine: engineer, accountant, project manager, builder, architect, analyst, operations, lawyer, craftsperson.

How it works with your Life Path

Your Life Path 6 (The Nurturer) is the road; your Expression 4 (The Builder) is how you travel it. Use the 4's strengths — stability, work, order, reliability — to serve the 6's lessons: care, responsibility, home, beauty.

Watch for

- Rigidity when plans change
- Working long past the point of rest
- Stubbornness about 'the right way'

Where your Life Path is the road, your Expression is the vehicle. When the two are the same number, the theme is doubled; when they differ, you learn to use one to serve the other.

Soul Urge 7: The Seeker

Your Soul Urge number (also called Heart's Desire) comes from the vowels in your full birth name. It describes what you want deep down, often before you can explain why.

Keywords: insight, analysis, solitude, wisdom.

Seven is the number of the seeker. It brings depth, intuition and a need to understand how things really work. A 7 asks the questions others skip and is happiest with time to think, study and be alone.

What you want deep down

Deep down you want understanding: of yourself, of life, of the big questions. You need quiet, privacy and time to go deep. Small talk tires you.

What feeds you

Nature, meditation, reading and walks alone recharge a 7. Watch for withdrawing too far; one trusted friend is protective.

In love

A 7 needs a partner who respects their solitude and enjoys real conversation. Trust is earned slowly. The lesson is to share your inner world rather than only analysing it.

Your Soul Urge 7 and Personality 6 differ: people meet the 6 first (care, responsibility, home, beauty), while inside you want what a 7 wants (insight, analysis, solitude, wisdom). Close friends see both.

When you feel restless or unfulfilled even though life looks fine from outside, this number usually shows what is missing.

Personality 6: The Nurturer

Your Personality number comes from the consonants in your full birth name. It describes the first impression you make: how others see you before they get to know you.

Keywords: care, responsibility, home, beauty.

Six is the number of care. It brings warmth, responsibility, artistic taste and a deep sense of duty to family and community. A 6 makes places beautiful and people feel looked after.

The first impression you make

People meet you as warm, kind and dependable. You often look after how things look, and people come to you for comfort and advice.

Qualities people notice

- Nurturing, generous and loyal
- Strong sense of fairness
- Creates beautiful, welcoming spaces
- Natural counsellor and healer

When the impression works against you

- Over-giving and martyrdom
- Perfectionism about home or family

A practical tip: in interviews, first dates and new teams, lead with the 6's strengths, then let people discover your 7 heart over time.

It acts like a front door: it decides who walks in. Knowing it helps you understand why people react to you the way they do.

Maturity 1: The Leader

Your Maturity number adds your Life Path and Expression. It describes the goal that comes into focus in the second half of life, usually from your late thirties onward.

Keywords: independence, initiative, courage, originality.

One is the number of beginnings. It carries the energy of the first step: the person who goes ahead before the path is clear, trusts their own judgement and would rather make a mistake of their own than follow someone else's plan. A 1 learns by doing and grows most when they are allowed to lead.

In your chart 6 + 4 reduce to 1. As the years pass, the qualities of the 1 — independence, initiative, courage, originality — become more and more central.

Where life is heading

Your growth comes from learning that asking for help is a leadership skill, not a weakness. The strongest 1s build teams, finish what they start and let others shine next to them.

The calling that grows stronger

A 1 does best with ownership: their own project, their own clients, their own team or their own business. Micromanagement drains them. Give a 1 a clear goal and room to reach it their way.

Many people find this number feels truer every year. It is the destination your earlier experience prepares you for.

Birthday 3 and Attitude 3

You were born on day 3 of the month. Your Birthday number 3 is a smaller, specific talent: a gift for expression and joy. It works like a tool on your belt that you can reach for whenever your Life Path 6 needs support.

Single-digit birthdays give a concentrated version of the number's gift.

Attitude number 3

Your Attitude number comes from your birth month and day. It describes your first reaction to new situations and people. You approach new situations with friendliness and humour.

Your name, letter by letter

Each letter of your birth name carries a value from 1 to 9. Vowels feed your Soul Urge, consonants your Personality, and all of them together your Expression. The first letter (your cornerstone) shows how you begin things; the first vowel shows how you react from the heart.

Your cornerstone is M (4).

Name	Letters and values	Total	Reduced
Maya	M=4 A=1 Y=7 A=1	13	4
Elena	E=5 L=3 E=5 N=5 A=1	19	1

Inclusion chart, Hidden Passion and karmic lessons

The inclusion chart counts how many times each number appears in your name. Numbers that appear often are strengths you lean on; numbers that are missing point to skills you are here to practise.

Hidden Passion: 1

1 appears 4 times. Independent, original and driven. You are here to start things and trust your own way. Watch for impatience and going it alone.

Karmic lessons

- Missing 8: money and authority. Practise budgeting, negotiation and owning your power.

Your four Pinnacles: the stages of life

Pinnacles divide life into four long stages. Each one has a number that describes the opportunities and atmosphere of that period. The first ends at 36 minus your single-digit Life Path; the next two last nine years each; the fourth lasts the rest of your life.

You are now around 34, in your second Pinnacle.

Pinnacle 1 (ages birth – 30): 3 · The Communicator

A period of self-expression and social growth. Creativity, communication and friendships open doors; joy is part of the lesson.

- Make the most of it: communicates with warmth and wit; optimistic and encouraging.
- Watch for: scattering energy across too many projects.

With your Life Path 6, this stage stretches you towards the 3's way of doing things.

Pinnacle 2 (ages 31 – 39): 6 · The Nurturer — your current stage

A period of compassion, completion and wider service. Old chapters close, and a broader view of life opens.

Qualities this stage asks you to develop: compassion, idealism, completion, wisdom. Your growth comes from letting go. The strongest 9s finish chapters cleanly, forgive, and serve without losing themselves.

- Make the most of it: compassionate and tolerant; sees the bigger picture.
- Watch for: martyrdom and self-sacrifice.

With your Life Path 6, this stage stretches you towards the 9's way of doing things.

Pinnacle 4 (ages 49 onward): 3 · The Communicator

A period of self-expression and social growth. Creativity, communication and friendships open doors; joy is part of the lesson.

Qualities this stage asks you to develop: expression, creativity, joy, communication. Your growth comes from finishing. The strongest 3s pick the one project that matters most, take it all the way, and let their depth show alongside their charm.

- Make the most of it: communicates with warmth and wit; optimistic and encouraging.
- Watch for: scattering energy across too many projects.

With your Life Path 6, this stage stretches you towards the 3's way of doing things.

Your four Challenges

Challenges run alongside the Pinnacles. Each is a lesson that keeps returning until it is learned; once you recognise it, it becomes a strength. The third Challenge (the main one) colours your whole life.

First Challenge: 6 (ages birth – 30)

The challenge of responsibility: learning where your duty ends, and avoiding perfectionism and control in close relationships.

- Ask 'is this mine to fix?' before stepping in.
- Accept 'good enough' at home once a week.

Second Challenge: 0 (ages 31 – 39)

The challenge of choice: every lesson is available, so the task is to choose your direction rather than drift. It often belongs to people with wide potential.

- Choose one direction for the next year and say it out loud.
- Notice when keeping options open is really avoiding a decision.

Third (main) Challenge: 6 (ages 40 – 48)

The challenge of responsibility: learning where your duty ends, and avoiding perfectionism and control in close relationships.

- Ask 'is this mine to fix?' before stepping in.
- Accept 'good enough' at home once a week.

Fourth Challenge: 6 (ages 49 onward)

The challenge of responsibility: learning where your duty ends, and avoiding perfectionism and control in close relationships.

- Ask 'is this mine to fix?' before stepping in.
- Accept 'good enough' at home once a week.

Your nine-year cycle

Life Path 6 in relationships

Numerology groups Life Paths into three families: the independent thinkers (1, 5, 7), who value freedom, ideas and room to be themselves; the builders (2, 4, 8), who value security, loyalty and practical progress; the creatives (3, 6, 9), who value expression, warmth and meaning. Numbers in the same family usually understand each other easily; numbers from different families can be just as happy, with more conscious effort.

As a 6, you belong to the creatives (3, 6, 9), who value expression, warmth and meaning.

In love

A 6 is devoted and romantic, often happiest in a committed relationship and family life. The lesson is to let your partner care for you too and to love people as they are, not as you hope they'll be.

Compatibility in numerology is a conversation starter, never a verdict. Any pairing can work with respect and good communication.

Pairing by pairing

- With a 1: A 1 partner brings drive and independence. Give them room to lead in their areas and agree clearly on shared decisions.
- With a 2: A 2 partner brings tenderness and loyalty. They need reassurance and gentle honesty; harsh words land hard.
- With a 3: A 3 partner brings fun, ideas and affection. Keep life social and playful, and help them finish what they start.
- With a 4: A 4 partner brings stability and commitment. Respect their plans and routines; surprises work best when they're small.
- With a 5: A 5 partner brings adventure and change. Travel and new experiences together keep the bond alive; don't try to fence them in.
- With a 6: A 6 partner brings care and devotion. Appreciate what they do, and help them rest instead of carrying everyone.
- With a 7: A 7 partner brings depth and quiet loyalty. Give them solitude without taking it personally; real conversation is their love language.
- With a 8: An 8 partner brings ambition and protection. Share goals, respect their drive and insist on time that isn't about work.
- With a 9: A 9 partner brings compassion and big ideals. Support their causes and help them let go of the past.

Method and glossary

Method

- Letters: Pythagorean values, A=1 to I=9, J=1 to R=9, S=1 to Z=8. Accents are removed before counting.
- Vowels are A, E, I, O, U; Y counts as a vowel only when no other vowel sits next to it.
- Life Path: month, day and year are each reduced, then added and reduced again, keeping 11, 22 and 33.
- Pinnacles: month + day, day + year, the first two added, month + year. Challenges: the differences of month, day and year reduced to single digits.
- Personal Year: birth month + birth day + the calendar year, reduced. Personal Month: Personal Year + calendar month, reduced.
